Position of our Forces in the West. We have late intelligence from our army in Western Virginia, giving the position of its several divisions, which every day grows more critical.

Since the battle of Cross Lanes General Floyd was waiting for supplies. In addition to the 96 Yankee prisoners, with some Union men, brought down to Richmond a tew days ago, the train on Saturday brought down 15 prisoners who had been captured since the rout of the enemy at Cross Lanes. They were taken straggling through the woods, where they had been lost in the complete rout and dispersion of Tyler's command. The attack was made on Tyler's troops while they were companied by all his field officers, fled with the utmost dispatch from the field. Colonel Tyler barely escaped
